

GRIZZLY BEAR IS POPULAR IN EAST

Eccentric Dance Star Number at Cotillion Attended by Four Hundred.

O. K. IF NOT OVERPLAYED

Professor Tells How Outro Step May Be Employed Without Stretching Proprieties.

New York, Dec. 8.—Can you dance the grizzly bear? If you can't you must realize that there is a serious defect in your education. Because, in society, polite and otherwise, the grizzly bear is making the turkey trot look as prim and old fashioned as a square dance.

The other night the first junior cotillion took place at Sherry's, but the manner of its happening was "Hamlet" with Hamlet left out. For no cotillion was danced because of the almost universal desire of the younger set to dance the grizzly bear.

To be sure, Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston recently announced that if the grizzly bear were danced in any of the halls of that city it would be sufficient warrant for a revocation of the license of the place in which it was allowed.

However, Mayor Fitzgerald's words are flung in his teeth by no less a person than Alviene, Frank Gould's old dancing master, and the instructor of many young men and women in the 400. Alviene declares the grizzly bear is a perfectly nice, tuneful, enjoyable dance, only like other good things, it may be abused.

DELIGHTFUL IN CORRECT FORM.

"In its correct form it is quite simple and delightful," he explained. "It begins with one two-step measure, danced to one side, and a second two-step measure danced to the other. Then, clasped with uplifted hands, the dancers take four half-time steps in a circle. It is this move of the dance which is its distinguishing feature and from which the name was derived, for the motion, combined with the uplifted arms, reminds one of the pictures of a grizzly bear rearing up and advancing to meet its enemy. After the half-time steps the two-step measures

HE LEADS FEDERAL DYNAMITING PROBE

CHARLES W. MILLER

United States District Attorney Charles W. Miller, of Indianapolis, is the leading spirit there in a federal investigation into the dynamiting operations of the McNamara brothers, and others alleged to have been associated with them.

"An earnest effort will be made by the government to bring to justice every man involved in this damnable conspiracy," he declares.

follow again, and then the grizzly bear motion is repeated.

"Personally, I do not think the dance particularly pretty or graceful. But, like the Boston and other recent favorites, it lends itself to freedom of movement and a certain romping tendency common among young people. However, when it is properly danced, there is nothing offensive to modesty."

ADmits UNSEEMLY POSSIBILITIES.

But there are plenty of unseemly possibilities in the grizzly bear, improperly danced, and Alviene is quick to admit that.

"In certain circles even the name is not understood," he declared. "It is thought to mean that the dancers must stand extraordinarily close together, in imitation of the grizzly bear hug. That is why spectators have sometimes asserted that it resembled a hugging match. In this undignified and improper position the man extends his arms straight forward, resting each hand under the girl's arms. The girl puts her arms directly around the shoulders of the man, and they are as close together as they can be and move."

"Another vulgar variation of the way of holding a partner is shown when the dancers both crook their elbows out at the side holding them at stiff right angles to the body. Their hands meet in the middle, and the elbows of one partner rest lightly on the elbows of the other. Again the two are drawn close together in an unbecoming as well as ungraceful position."

MOST OFFENSIVE FEATURE.

"But the most offensive feature ever seen in the grizzly bear dance consists of the body movements. These made up the real reason the turkey trot was so severely condemned, and they have been transferred without palliation to the new dance. They include a sideways swaying motion of the hips and a thrusting forward of torso or abdomen beyond the normal position."

"Needless to say, all these motions are not only ugly, but offensive to refined taste. They were originally copied from the most depraved stage dances, such as no decent person would practice, even professionally. But they certainly are an accepted part of the grizzly bear, as it is now and then danced. They are not confined to the lowest class of dance halls, either, for reckless savvies get the upper hand of social decorum more often than is generally thought. "Properly danced, the grizzly bear dance is all right; abused, it is not fit to be mentioned in the presence of ladies."

DEPLORES SOCIETY'S EXAMPLE.

The grizzly bear is one of the dances included under the ban of the committee on amusements and vacation resources of working girls, of which Mrs. Charles H. Israels is chairman. "I think it is a great pity that society women should take up this disgraceful dance, even if they stick to a mild and refined version of it," says Mrs. Israels. "Their influence is so wide and far-reaching. When the newspapers chronicle that Mrs. Somebody of Newport introduced and danced the grizzly bear at her ball it is only to be expected that young people seeking to be socially correct should imitate."

"How can we expect to arrive at a decent standard for dancing when we have continually to fight the assertion that suggestive dances are taking place in the homes of the leaders of society?"

FARMER UNION IS HELD MONOPOLY BY A COURT

Decorah, Iowa, Dec. 8.—In the district court here, Judge Hobson decided that farmers' cooperative companies cannot enforce special requirements from the membership, but must enter in the open market for business, the same as any other concern. The Decorah Farmers' Cooperative society, organized in 1908, adopted bylaws requiring all members of the company selling hogs or produce to any other individual or company to pay into the treasury of the company 5 cents per hundred weight. This in effect compelled anyone else in the business in the territory to pay 5 or 10 cents per hundred more than the farmers' company for stock. Officers of the

Merchandise Bonds

Among many large concerns it is customary at Christmas time to remember their employees with Christmas gifts. Many have found the simplest and most satisfactory way is to issue merchandise bonds for a certain amount and allow each one to select their own present. This saves time and assures each individual of getting the thing they like best. We issue these merchandise bonds for any amount. They can be redeemed at any time in merchandise.

Bring the children to Toyland

Santa will be there tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 5, and evening from 7 to 9. He is glad to greet the little folks and answer their telephone calls and read their letters. The little folks can talk to him direct from their homes. Just call number 323 and ask for Santa Claus during the hours he is in his work shop. He has been receiving so many letters that he has his mail box near his work shop so that the little folks can drop in the letters they write.

Hundreds of toys

Toyland is more interesting than ever. You will see lots of toys and games and dolls that will brighten homes of many little ones on Christmas morning. The boys will find much of interest in the mechanical toys. If a boy is of a mechanical turn of mind nothing is more apt to please him than some of the new toys that run by electricity, steam or by a spring. Automobiles, steam engines, trains, motors, flying machines, boats & other things galore.
